BOARD OF TRADE DINNER A PRONOUNCED SUCCESS

One hundred people attended the banquet given by the Board of Trade at the Woman's club house Monday night, every one a booster for greater Sierra Madre. A score of new members joined the club.

The dinner, at 6:30, was a real dinner served by the ladies of the Woman's club, enjoyed and appreciated by all.

During the meal a musical and dancing program was given, Mrs. Milton Steinberger in charge. Miss Hope Knapp of Alhambra, quaintly and beautifully gowned, gave several dancing numbers which were heartily applauded, and Miss Oniga Hansen of Los Angeles, pupil of Roland Paul of the Eagan school, sang two solos, accompanied on the piano by Miss Minnie Marshall of Los Angeles.

After the dinner, President Alley gave a short characteristic talk and introduced the first speaker of the evening, our fellow citizen, Col. W. H. Holobird.

The colonel's talk was largely reminiscent but always loyal and enthusiastic for Sierra Madre, the home of his selection, and in whose future progress he has implicit confidence. He said that he had visited every Pacific coast county and was intimately familiar with the various mountain, valleys and plains, but nowhere did he ever find a location or spot that could compare with Sierra Madre for natural beauty and delightful surroundings. He urged the Board of Trade to march forward and simply ignore the "mossback" resident who was satisfied with present conditions, and had no ambition to see the town grow.

Ray Mitchell, president of the Chamber of Commerce of San Pedro, began his remarks by complimenting Sierra Madre on its wisdom in choosing a mayor with such a good name, and agreed with the preceding speaker's remarks about the "mossback." He made some helpful suggestions and told all about his city and it was a splendid talk—for San Pedro. If Sierra Madrans will catch his fever and shout for their city as he did for his, his visit will have been well worth while.

Mr. I. G. Lewis, secretary of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, was the next speaker. Mr. Lewis has been a professional secretary for civic organizations for ten or twelve years, and the valuable ideas, suggestions and advice that he gave was listened to with the closest attention. He scouted the idea of passing by the "mossback," but said to take him along. In fact, he contended that there wasn't any "mossback"—that the one so-called was a human being with likes, dislikes and ambition just like the rest of us, but with ideas at variance with ours and that it was the duty of the Board of Trade to find his weak point, break through his armor, convince him of the error of his opinion, harmonize him with the public movement, join him to the Board of Trade, put him to work—and take him along.

He said also that $10 a year was too small an amount for the dues; that $25 would be more in keeping with the advantages to be gained, but insisted that at the smaller amount every property holder in Sierra Madre, resident and non-resident, should be induced to join the board as a matter of benefit to themselves. He recommended the employment of a good secretary who would be on the job all the time, and if this were done, prophesied that Sierra Madre would come up to the level of other progressive towns and progress beyond many of them not so favorably situated.

Mr. Joseph Scott, ex-president of the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles, was next introduced, although the ceremony was hardly necessary, as almost everybody present already knew Joe Scott, lawyer, leader, booster, orator. He recounted the work of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce and its gigantic problems, emphasizing the fact that all Southern California was working toward a common end—development—and that all civic organizations were helpful, or otherwise, to each other, according to their own activity.

He urged the Sierra Madre Board of Trade to consider the general problem of the county as well as the local ones, and pounded home a few sledge-hammer blows on loyal Americanism against socialism, Bolshevism and all other "isms" that are so actively, though insidiously, undermining our form of government.

Mr. Scott is an earnest speaker and a finished orator and was frequently interrupted by vigorous applause.

Earl D. Topping, chairman of the membership committee, gave an outline of the plans for a membership drive and officially appointed every member of the Board on the committee to secure new members, and insisted that none be allowed to escape.

BOARD OF TRADE'S BIG THERMOMETER

The big Board of Trade thermometer in front of the News office is registering 100 members today, having climbed up 25 members since it was manufactured. Watch it climb until it "busts the tube" and spills over the top with 400.

The open season for new members is now on and every member is hustling to turn in his quota of four. Non-members had just as well walk into headquarters and join voluntarily for to quote a famous advertising slogan "eventually—why not now?"

BOARD OF TRADE NEW HEADQUARTERS

Headquarters for the Board of Trade membership drive have been installed in the west show room of the Sierra Madre Garage and equipped with all the latest modern equipment for enrolling new members with neatness and dispatch. Join early.

Upside down hunting for the last new member. Better join now.

Earl Topping, chairman of the membership committee of the Board of Trade, says he will turn the town upside down.

Judge E. W. Camp spoke of the benefits to home people in beautifying the town and asserted that if we make Sierra Madre a good place to live in, the new residents will come fast enough.

E. J. Webster, with the pep and fire of a youth of twenty, added to the conflagration of enthusiasm and promised his personal and financial assistance.

Mayor Mitchell contributed his bit and volunteered for future heavy work, because his heart is in this movement.

Altogether, the reorganization of the Board of Trade got away with a running start. The attendance and enthusiasm was all that could have been hoped for. The business interests were there in a body; the property owners were in attendance and took a lively interest in affairs. The city officials were all present except Trustee Essick and he had a perfectly good alibi, and several ladies signified by their presence that they intended to join and help, all of which is extremely gratifying and bespeaks the awakening of Sierra Madre to an activity heretofore unknown.

WHY YOU SHOULD JOIN THE BOARD OF TRADE

Why do you live in Sierra Madre? Are you compelled to do so? Have you the price of a ticket to elsewhere? Do you hate the town and its people? Of course not.

Well, then, you live here from choice, because you like the place better than other locations, because you like the pure air, the pure water, the delightful natural scenery, and the developed beauty, of course.

In short, you like the home of your selection and you have a civic pride in its beauty and accomplishments. You would like to see it improved to a still greater extent—made a still better place to live in. Sure, that's the key—a better place to live in. That may not be good grammar, but it's good sense.

Listen: We are all agreed so far, but suppose each one starts making Sierra Madre a good place to live in in his own individual way, each of us working out an individual plan, many of them at variance or antagonistic, five hundred of us pulling in hundreds of different directions—don't you see? Of course you do, and that's just the big idea.

Hitch up with the Board of Trade, get in the harness that is fastened to this organization and pull with the rest, all in the same direction, all together and all at the same time to make Sierra Madre a good place to live in.

You remember when horses pulled wagons and wagons got stuck in the mud and the driver larruped first one horse then the other and under the smart of the whip first one horse jumped forward, pulling the other back, and the other had his turn converting the doubletree into a regular see-saw, until a neighbor came along who was a real, experienced driver, and taking the lines in a steady hand, with a few quiet spoken words of encouragement, induced the horses to pull steadily together and the load rolled out on solid ground. The horses were not to blame, it was the driver, and that's why the Board of Trade is going to have a good experienced driver—a paid, experienced secretary, that will line us up and show us how to all pull together in the same direction to make Sierra Madre a better place to live in.

One of the speakers at the banquet Monday night said "Make Sierra Madre attractive and the new residents will come fast enough." Another one said "our job is to sell Sierra Madre to ourselves." Do you get that?

You own a home—perhaps a little home—and you clean up the yard, repair the roof, paint where needed, and beautify the property with trees, shrubs and flowers. As a result you have increased the intrinsic value of not only your place, but the homes of your neighbors as well and it is some satisfaction to know that your property has an added value.

After we have "sold Sierra Madre to ourselves," by "putting the town in order," vacant property will begin to move and new buildings will spring up, the owners of which will in turn improve and beautify what was once (and is now) a patch of weeds. Now don't you see it.

We wish we could write like Joseph Scott can talk—as he talked at the meeting Monday night. Why, you wouldn't wait to finish reading this, but would jump up and hurry down to headquarters to join the Board of Trade, to get hitched to the wagon and pull with all the rest of Sierra Madre.

ENTERTAINMENT SATURDAY AT WOMAN'S CLUB HOUSE

If you have an expressed or suppressed desire to know about your latest, latent complex or even if you don't care shucks about being "psyched" you should see the little masterpiece of satire, "Suppressed Desires," at the club house on Saturday afternoon and evening, the 22nd, as presented by members of the "Q" club of Pasadena.

The playlet was written by Susan Keating, Glaspell and George Cram Cook and was first produced by the Provincetown Players.

The complication engendered by Henrietta Brewster, ardent devotee of the new cult, psycho-analysis, and her endeavors to thrust it upon her unwilling husband, and her impressionable sister, keeps the audience uproariously thrilled from the rise of the curtain to the final drop.

To describe the plot further would spoil the fun. Come and see it.

A cafeteria supper will be served at the club house at 6 o'clock by the Ladies' Aid society of the church, so bring your family to supper and stay for the show. The menu for the supper is as follows:

Pot roast, roast pork, leg of lamb, mashed potatoes, string beans, buttered beets, perfection salad, fruit salad, cottage cheese, rolls and bread, ice cream, cake, coffee.

SIERRA MADRE ADVERTISING SCATTERED BY AIRPLANE

Did you get a prize yesterday when the airplane from the Sierra airdrome scattered 4000 hand bills over Sierra Madre? If you didn't it's not yet too late to get one as the following merchants each wrote an order on the back of a hand bill for various amounts of merchandise from a box of candy up to goods to the value of $2.50, and a "prize" bill may be lying in your yard right now.

The hand bill reads:

An Open Letter.
To the People of Sierra Madre:
You believe in Sierra Madre.
You have chosen it as a place to live because it is congenial to you.

You have the ever-changing colors of the Mother Mountains and the wide vistas over the fertile valley of the San Gabriel.

You take a keen delight in the clear blossom-scented air of twelve hundred feet elevation.

You feel that here you have a little more than your share of the common blessings and ordinary delights of life.

If you do not feel these things you are not worthy of the town in which you live.

If you do feel these things you will have a sincere desire to make this town an even better place to live and to extend its delights to others who will appreciate them.

There may or may not be in your mind definite things that you would like to see accomplished here.

But a community is organic and must grow to live.

And you prefer to ally yourself with its growth rather than with its decay.

You would like to see Sierra Madre show signs of a vital growth in the right direction and attain a destiny of which it is worthy as a community of homes and home loving people.

Let us, then, get together in guid-

ROAD BUILDING

FAVOR THROUGH MAIN ROADS

Motortrucks Expected to Play Prominent Part in Transportation Facilities.

England is now debating roads for motor transportation, for, although she is amply equipped with railroads, it is believed that hereafter motor-trucks will play a prominent part in the business of the country. Systems of special highways are being mapped out, and the plans proposed include an apparently excellent feature. To avoid the delays and congestion incident on traversing towns, it is suggested that the main road be located beyond the borders of the town, and this would certainly expedite traffic, as it would not be necessary for every vehicle using the route to painfully thread its way through every village on the way. Of course this would not appeal to the local tradesman who hopes to catch an occasional penny from the passing cars, nor to the local magistrate who inflates his own income, and the funds of his town, by his interpretation of the law; but this is a matter of national interest and not to be restricted by petty local considerations.—Scientific American.

IMPROVING KING ROAD DRAG

Found Too Weak for Work in Pennsylvania and Strengthened by Wrought Iron Strips.

The old form of King road drag was merely two sides of a split log, fastened so that the sharp sides of the split surface faced forward, the straight surface extending vertically; the two parts were spaced about two feet apart and connected by struts to hold them parallel; the outfit was dragged by a chain, fastened to the front half-log, and the angle at which the contrivance was dragged over the surface was controlled by the manner in which the team was hitched to the chain, the chain itself being fastened permanently at both ends to two staples in the front log, which altered the angle at which the team was hitched, writes L. Ruppel of Pennsylvania in Rural New Yorker.

"We found the original form too weak for our road work here, so we devised certain improvements, which are shown in the sketch, the most important of which was that we shod the front log with a strip two inches wide, one-half inch thick, of wrought iron, said strip being placed at the lower edge of the two-inch width extending vertically along the front log."

SAVE PERISHABLE PRODUCTS

Rural Motor Transportation Affords Opportunity to Get Crops to Market Quickly.

With the advent and development of rural motor transportation comes direct encouragement to raise better and bigger crops because of the better and broader market thus afforded. In the production of marketable produce there comes an opportunity for the saving of perishable products by quick deliveries, and for higher prices because of the excellent condition in which these commodities can be delivered.

PROPER CARE FOR ROADSIDE

Means Substantial Addition to Value of Adjoining Property and Aids Appearance.

Proper attention to the roadside means a definite increase in the pleasure of traveling over it, a positive preservation of the road itself and a substantial addition to the value of adjoining property. No matter how smooth and well constructed the traveled road may be, if the roadside is not properly cared for, the highway as a whole will not give a good impression. Macadam or gravel roads particularly need the protecting shade of trees.

Add to Social Advantages.

Good roads add to social advantages. They strengthen the country church, tend toward better living, bring a good class of people into a community, and help to hold a bigger share of the best boys and girls on the farm.

Cost of Good Road.

It has been found that it costs about $2,500 a mile to build a really first-class road, but when it is properly constructed it is as permanent as a railroad.

In Portugal

The Castle of Pena, Portugal.

TO PORTUGAL, land of almost eternal sunshine, American investors are going, with great schemes for the development of the latent resources waiting only for the capital and energy necessary for their unfolding. In the Roio, the principal business street of Lisbon, buildings have been secured to remodel or newly build large storehouses. At Mount Estoril, the Palm Beach of Portugal, the important hotels and concessions have been secured by Americans, with the purpose of making it a rival to San Sebastian on the Spanish coast, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor.

An electric railway will connect it with Lisbon and Cintra, whose chief attraction is the Pena castle. Cintra, once the home of the Moorish kings, and later occupied by the kings of Portugal.

A large casino is being erected on the beach, and several large hotels of American design and furnishings will be built along the shores of this charming site. And of Vigo, Spain, the American investor will concern himself—there he has taken up the extensive harbor improvements and inland communications, thus to realize the vast undeveloped mineral possibilities of the Galician hinterland and Leon. Railways will be extended to Madrid, making a more rapid route for tourists between Paris and South America.

Everything but Energy.

Portugal is a country rich in all things save in popular energy. Germany and France, until the late war, exploited its sardine industry, one of its most valuable items of commerce. The cork forests are abundant, and the olive and grape are very prolific in their yield. Tropical and subtropical fruits of many varieties abound, and can be bought for trifling amounts.

The Portuguese peasants have been called the most kindly and dependable of all Europe. Each province is distinguished by a different and most picturesque costume. The excellence of its climate; the varied aspects and diversity of its vegetation; the multiplicity of its hot and cold springs; the progressive improvement in its hotel accommodations, offered at a lower price than that of any others in Europe, make Portugal one of the most favored of lands for the exploitation of the tourist.

At the present time the Mother of Navigators, as Portugal has been named, is less known by geographers and archeologists than any other country on the continent. No lands have been better glorified by nature; and buried Roman and Celtic-therian cities, treasure houses of antiquity, are rich mines for conquest with pick and shovel.

Portugal is an agricultural country, but the sardine industry makes up a large part of her commerce. Millions of boxes of this product of Portuguese canners bear the imprint of French packers, some even with France as the country of origin. The abundant olive lends itself to the packer of the better-grade sardine, yielding, as it does, a superior oil.

The cork tree, which produces a new bark once in ten years, gives an important article for export. Each stripping furnishes about $10 worth of bark per tree. The other woods most abundant are the acacia, poplar, elm, ash, eucalyptus, pine and oak. About one acre in five of the total area of Portugal is wooded. The more remote agricultural and timber districts are handicapped by the lack of even reasonably good transportation facilities, either railroad or wagon.

Conglomeration of Races.

Ethnologically Portugal is a conglomerate. The people of the northern province of Entre Douro and Minho and Trás-os-Montes are of Galician stock; in the lower provinces the Portuguese have intermarried with the Arab, Dutch, French and English, and, in one province, the Frisian.

The Jews, after their forced conversion by King Emanuel, intermarried with all races. On the southern coast from Cape St. Vincent to the Spanish frontier the influence of African ancestry is very apparent—due to the importation of slaves for service in the olive groves and vineyards of Alentejo and Algarves.

Portugal has a distinct national personality in art, music and literature—each having a unique vigor. It has been said that all Portuguese are singers. On fete days and on Sundays the roads abound with gayly costumed peasants carrying mandolas and singing the songs of Portugal, inspired by Camoens, whose poems have enriched the literature of Iberia.

In art and architecture the names Carlos Reis, Santos Braga, Teixeira Lopez, Colombano, Adelide Lima, Malho, Salgado, and Fernandez stand out. The cathedrals, veritable monuments to the architectural genius of succeeding generations, vie with the noblest examples of ecclesiastical edifices in Europe. The sandstone—so abundant in Portugal—lends itself to the sculptor's chisel.

NOT YET FULLY CIVILIZED

Solomon Islanders at Times Apt to Go Back to Pleasant Diversion of Head Hunting.

The Solomon Islands are famous as one of the last strongholds of head-hunting and cannibalism. Some of the natives have been converted to a civilized respect for human life, but the native taste of the Solomon Islander still approves a ceremonial feast once in a while, with several members of a hostile tribe tastily cooked and served.

Head-hunting has for centuries been a part of the islander's religion and is pursued with great zeal and a kind of ecstatic enjoyment to all except the victims. Head-hunters from one tribe set out for a hunt to the lands of another tribe. They swoop down on a village, seize as many victims as possible and escape. The trophies of the chase are impaled on posts as evidence of the hunters' prowess, while the feast which follows consists mainly of the victims.

If the attacked tribe knows of the plan beforehand it will retire to its tree houses, where it is safe for a while. These houses are built fifty or sixty feet from the ground in the branches of giant trees. Ladders hang from them and up these the agile natives climb and then pull up the ladder.

Usually a hunt is now instituted only for one or two sacrifices, and skulls as decorations in the houses are less fashionable than they once were. This is a favorable sign, but the real Solomon Islander is far from tame and it apt to relapse any time into the ways of his fathers.

WONDERFUL WORK OF NATURE

Grand Canyon of Arizona, Now a National Park, Called Most Sublime of Earthly Spectacles.

Grand Canyon National park, in the northwest corner of Arizona, is the newest of our national playgrounds, having been brought into the national park family by an act of congress in 1909.

The canyon is a titanic gash in the earth's crust, a stupendous chasm, in places 10 to 13 miles wide from rim to rim, over 200 miles long and more than a mile deep. This wonder of Nature, said to be the most sublime of earthly spectacles, is a composite of thousands and tens of thousands of gorges.

Long years ago bronzed savages built their dwellings on the sides of its cliffs. In 1540 one of the early Spanish explorers stood on its brink and gazed with awe at its vastness; a Franciscan priest 200 years later was the next white visitor; then for more than 80 years the big canyon remained unvisited except by Indians and an occasional herdsman or trapper.

Now the skill of man has made it accessible both by train and by automobile, and every year thousands of tourists view this crowning wonder of the American west.

Feast of Purim.

The feast of Purim, corresponding to the fourteenth day of the Hebrew month of Adar, is a joyous festival of the Jews, celebrated by them in commemoration of their deliverance from imminent destruction as narrated in the Book of Esther, from a Persian word meaning "lots," the festival being so designated because of the lots that are said to have been cast by Haman, prime minister to Ahasuerus, king of Persia, to determine the day on which to carry out a plot of exterminating the Jews.

Must I Endure Forever the Torturous Itching?

The skin is fed from the blood, and upon the condition of the blood depends whether or not your skin will be healthy and free from boils, pimples, scaly irritations, red eruptions and other disfiguring and unsightly disorders. The sensible treatment that will show real results is a remedy that will cleanse the blood thoroughly and kill the germs that cause the trouble. And for this purpose no remedy ever made can approach the record of S. S. S. which cleanses the blood of the disease germs, at the same time building up the general health.

SOME OTHER KIND OF BISCUIT

Mrs. Pomple Satisfied Cows Were Not Fed on Anything That Was Composed of Milk.

One after the other, customers had come to the shop and complained about the milk.

"What I want to know," said Mrs. Pomple, who looked almost as thin as the milk, "is what you feed your cows on?"

"Feed them on?" snapped the dairyman. "Why, I reckon we feeds them better than a good many human beings I know feed themselves"—this with a chinky stare at the thin customer. "My cows are fed on the fat of the land, and if their fodder ain't up to the mark, we give 'em the finest biscuits we can buy. And if we can't buy the biscuits, we make 'em. I stops at nothing when I wish to please my customers."

"George, dear!" began the worried woman.

"Yes, wotist?" grunted George, without looking up from his newspaper.

"Would you mind helping me with a little bit of arithmetic?" she pleaded.

"Not at all."

"Well, if we pay the new cook the wages she wants will we have enough money left to buy anything for her to cook?"—London Answers.

SEEKS FOE OF JAP BEETLE

Specialist Has Been Detailed to Bring to This Country Enemy of Horticultural Pest.

The Japanese beetle is going to leave its old enemies on its trail in this country. The United States department of agriculture has sent a man to Japan to find those enemies and send them across the ocean. They will then be established in the sections of New Jersey where the beetle has gained a foothold, and they are expected to aid greatly in the control of the pest.

The agent employed in Japan is familiar with Japanese conditions and is a specialist in this kind of work. It is expected that the task will require his sojourn in Japan for two or three years. While something is known of the parasites of the Japanese beetle a great deal is still to be learned only under field conditions where the beetle lives with all the enemies that prey upon it. The beetle reached this country with importations of greenhouse plants, and thus far apparently has been comparatively free from molestations by natural enemies.

BRAINS, NOT COMMONLY USED.

Brains, not commonly used as food. The above title can be truthful, with the two meanings, for if we used our brains more in the performance of our household duties we might save much labor and material; however, the subject of this article is to be the cooking and serving of brains. Brains have a delicate tissue that makes them suitable for many dishes which call for a tender meat. Remove the skin and fibers, place the brains in a dish and cover with cold water to which has been added a tablespoonful of vinegar. Let stand for two hours, changing the water once or twice. Then drain and cover with boiling water and just simmer on the back part of the stove. Drain and cool, and they are ready for use. Brains of beef, sheep, or pork are used equally well in any of these dishes:

Brains, Oyster Style.—Prepare the brains as in the above directions, separate into serving-sized pieces, dip each in beaten egg, then roll in flour or crumbs and fry in hot fat until a golden brown. Serve with cold slaw.

Brains a la Newberg.—Cut the prepared brains into one-inch pieces. Place one cupful of thick, rich white sauce in a chafing dish with the brains, add two tablespoonfuls of butter or any substitute; season with salt and pepper, with a dash of lemon juice. Heat to the boiling point, stirring to keep from scorching, add a beaten egg and when well mixed serve at once on toast.

Brains Omélet.—Dice half a cupful of brains that have been prepared and cooked, melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add the brains, stir a few minutes, add three tablespoonfuls of cream, season with salt and pepper. Make an omélet, using four eggs, place the brains in the center and roll into shape. Serve at once.

Pork Brains Cutlets.—Prepare the brains; then put through a food chopper, using the coarse knife; add to the brains one cupful of thick cream sauce, one-half cupful of bread crumbs and season with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice. Mix well and pour out on a large platter to cool. When cold mold into cutlets, dip in egg, flour, and fry in hot fat until brown.

The flush of youth soon passes from the face.
The spells of fancy from the mind depart;
The form may lose its symmetry, its grace,
But time can claim no victory o'er the heart.

COMMON DAILY FOOD.

Here is a luncheon dish which will be enjoyed and may be served with liver and bacon.

Spoon Bread.—Mix one pint of coarse cornmeal, the white variety, add one-half teaspoonful of salt and enough hot water to make a paste. Then cool and add one egg, a pint of buttermilk, one teaspoonful of soda; separate the white and yolk of the egg. Pour into a hot, well-buttered baking dish and bake in a hot oven. Serve from the baking dish.

Boston Brown Bread.—Mix together one cupful each of whole wheat and graham flour, one teaspoonful of soda and one cupful of cornmeal. Add two cupfuls of sour milk, one teaspoonful of salt, and one-half cupful of molasses. Beat well and turn into well-greased, pound baking powder cans. Cover tightly and steam two hours. Remove cover and dry off fifteen minutes in a hot oven. Slice while hot with a string. Raisins and nuts may be added if desired.

Rice Soup.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of rice water, add one cupful of hot milk in which a slice of onion has been cooked. Melt a tablespoonful of butter, add a tablespoonful of flour, salt and pepper to taste. Cook all together, adding at the last one tablespoonful of chopped parsley.

Potatoes Baked With Cheese.—Put a layer of cold boiled potatoes cut in thin slices into a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, then add a thin layer of grated cheese. Repeat until the dish is two-thirds full. Add a white sauce to cover the potatoes, then buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven about thirty minutes.

Do not worry,
Do not hurry,
As this world you travel through.
No regretting,
Fuming, fretting,
Ever can advantage you.
Be content with what you've won;
What on earth you leave undone
There are plenty left to do.
—Anon.

COMBINATION DISHES WITH EGGS

Often a cupful of cereal, rice, macaroni or meat may be placed out with a few eggs to make a most nutritious main dish.

Sausage Scramble.—Take one cupful of cooked sausage meat, mix with several beaten eggs and cook until the eggs are set. Serve with buttered toast.

Mexican Eggs.—Split three green peppers lengthwise and take out the seeds. Fry in hot fat until well cooked. Fry six thin slices of ham and place on slices of toast; lay the peppers over the ham and put a fried or poached egg on each slice.

Spanish Eggs.—Cook together one cupful of stewed and strained tomato, one clove of garlic finely minced, one chopped onion and two green peppers chopped. Cook gently until reduced to one-half. Spread on thin slices of toast and lay a fried egg on each slice.

Baked Eggs With Cheese.—Prepare circles of toast with the centers of each slice slightly scooped, leaving a depression. Spread with butter, then fill the hollow with creamed cheese. This may be grated cheese mixed with hot cream to form a paste. Arrange on a hot platter, break an egg on each piece of toast and sprinkle with cheese; place in a hot oven until the eggs are set.

Baked Eggs With Ham.—Make a cream sauce and add to it one cupful of finely minced cooked ham. Butter custard cups, break an egg into each, place in a pan of water in a hot oven until the eggs are firm. Spread the minced ham on slices of toast and turn the eggs on it. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and minced parsley.

Eggs With Creamed Celery.—Make a cream sauce and add enough boiled celery cut in small pieces to serve as a vegetable. Spread on buttered toast and lay a poached egg on each slice. The coarser portions of celery may be used for this dish, using a little water as possible in cooking and adding what is left for flavor to the white sauce.

Then keep your gold, but leave to me
The soul to feel, the eyes to see.
I am content, by right divine
The wealth of all the world is mine.
—Helen Hawthorne.

GOOD THINGS FOR LUNCHEON.

A dessert which is good, easy to prepare and serve, is the following:

Quick Bread Pudding.—Cut thin slices of bread into two-inch squares and arrange in a buttered baking dish with layers of raisins, chopped figs or canned grated pineapple. Pour over it four cupfuls of sweetened milk, in which two eggs have been beaten. Set the dish into a hot oven and bake 20 minutes.

Prune Soufflé.—Soak eighteen prunes over night and stew until tender. Remove the stones and rub the prunes through a sieve until the pulp is smooth. Beat the whites of eight eggs to a stiff froth. Add seven tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, fold in the prune pulp carefully, turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake twenty minutes. Serve immediately or it will fall.

Oyster Rarebit.—Beat one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add one teaspoonful of chopped onion and the same of parsley. Add three eggs well beaten, one cupful of grated cheese and one cupful of oysters which have been parboiled in their own liquor, then drained. Cook until creamy, stirring constantly and serve on toast. The cheese used should be very mild or the oyster flavor will be spoiled.

Mocha Pudding.—To one cupful of brown sugar add half a cupful of butter, one cupful of strained coffee, one egg, two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one cupful of cooked prunes and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. When baked until brown, serve with the following sauce: One cupful strained coffee, one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of butter, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves, boiled to

Gay Toggery at Dances in Paris

The popularity of the dandant and the revival of the tango in Paris have had a remarkable influence on dress, writes a French fashion correspondent. The smart places where people gather for afternoon dancing have become centers of fashion. There are those who do not go to dance but simply to study the clothes, not only for the styles themselves, but for the wealth of beautiful color that is expressed in many of them, for this dancing craze has been the means of introducing unusual colorings of Spanish origin into our clothes.

Jabot dresses are still a very strong feature in Paris fashions; one sees an endless number of them at afternoon dances. The jabot skirt, when topped by a simple little bodice, makes a remarkably pretty afternoon dress. In fact, nothing could be more attractive than such a model when developed in a soft, clinging fabric. But all have not these modest corsages. There are extreme ones having sleeveless bodices almost as décolleté as an evening gown.

One worn recently at a tea dance in Paris, too extreme to be worn by American women as an afternoon dress, would make a charming informal dinner frock. The original is developed in black satin and silver lace, the lace forming the jabot cascade down the sides of the draped skirt. A straight piece of the lace goes about the figure to make an under portion for the surplice bodice of black satin.

Old Favorites in New Patterns.

A great many beautiful new fabrics have large designs printed in bright colors. The fashion for having frocks made to match coat linings, which prevailed during the past winter, no doubt had a great deal to do with the development and elaboration of silks that were similar to the materials which we have been wont to employ as linings for wraps only. Many old favorites have returned to us in new guises as a result of the extensive use of these silks. Chiffon is one that has followed the lead of gay patterned silks. To read of a chiffon frock in which the material printed in a large design of two colors is combined with chiffon in two solid tones might give you the impression of a decidedly bizarre gown, but one has been developed in just this way and the result obtained by such a combination is simple and quaint.

The marriage, as the French say, of two colors, navy blue and white, is wonderfully worked out in this design. There is just enough of the deep blue in the upper part of the skirt to accentuate this note without making the dress dark. Where the printed fabric, which is white with a large blue design, joins the plain one, lace entre-deux is used for outlining the edges of the points and the oblique ends of the panels.

Chiffon Finds Fountain of Youth. The straight line figure is preserved through the draped blouse, which is made entirely of the printed chiffon and has a fichu collar of pure white chiffon, also elaborated with the entre-deux. This dress is quite as charming when developed in emerald green and white or cerise and white.

In days gone by we thought of printed chiffon as suitable only for elderly ladies' afternoon dresses; probably because this fabric was made in subdued colors and rather prosy designs. But this making of chiffon in big, patterns and brilliant shades has given it a new lease of life, so that now printed chiffons are quite the rage.

Jenny, whose models, while always beautiful, never were lovelier than they are this spring, uses quantities of printed chiffons combined with plain materials. In one instance she unites bright red foulard with chiffon having a large black and white pattern.

This dress has a long-waisted blouse joined to a tunic skirt with entre-deux, very much after the manner of the model just described, a point of difference, however, lying in the fact that the blouse, which is of the chiffon, is cut in a pointed design and applied to the foulard skirt. By using a long smock blouse Mme. Jenny cleverly gives the effect of a chemise dress.

Lovelier Dresses Than Ever Before. There is a large rolling collar of the red silk draped about a rather low-cut neck on the chiffon blouse. It is really wonderful the way these very bright—almost gaudy—silks are being combined with figured or plain silks as well as chiffons, and made into dresses lovelier than any we have ever had.

Even serge dresses have become frivolous to be in keeping with the gay dresses seen at the fashionable tea dandants. While these dresses have for a long time been somewhat enlivened by embroideries and trimmings of colored leather, the introduction of lingerie effects into them is something which we have not seen for many a season.

The woman who liked above everything else in her dress effects that were becoming and feminine regretted the passing of the always flattering lingerie collar. Many said when it became the mode to wear dresses with severe necklines, quite unadorned except for the occasional use of embroidered bands or a bit of dark fur, that women would not adopt a fashion so lacking in flattering aids to beauty.

But that most women are willing to follow the prevailing fashions is attested by the fact that lingerie collars were nowhere seen in assemblages of women who made any pretension to being smartly dressed.

Box Coats, One-Piece Dresses

One of the smartest of the new serge frocks, which has white organdie as its trimming, was seen at an afternoon dance. The color of the cloth was very dark blue and displayed to excellent advantage the fluted organdie trimming which took the form of a flaring Medici collar that continued down the front of the dress to the waistline in the form of a vest.

Box coats are not confined to regulation suits. At the Maison Worth, as well as at other great Paris houses, the box coat has been incorporated into the idea of a three-piece suit—that is to say, the one-piece dress with a straight box coat to be worn over it. Instead of having a contrasting vest these are open in the front to reveal the full length of the frock. Ever so many of these coats which match frocks have high, straight collars buttoning closely about the neck. These are unusual on loose coats that do not close at the front.

Every woman who loves simplicity and comfort in dress will be delighted to know that the best houses are still featuring the straight-line frock. A typical Parisian model is made of white tussah silk almost on the lines of a coat dress with the one side fastening. This closing shows a blinding of black satin, which continues in a straight line to form a finish for the high, close-fitting collar. The skirt portion is slit at the front to show an underskirt of black satin.

Gold Glitters Midst Laces. Black chantilly lace is elaborately used in combination with gold embroidery on net, and threads of gold woven into lace. The chantilly in black with gold embroidery decorates an evening cape of jade-green soft corded silk. The cape is lined with yellow tulle.

Angora Collars Picturesque. Angora cloth collars, square and round, and reaching to the point of the shoulder, are seen on spring coats. The same fabric, in cuffs, finishes the sleeves.

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

The Brute Again. "Darling, I cooked dinner for you all myself, and you've never said a word about it."

"I would have, dearest, but I somehow hate to be always complaining."

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin caluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callous. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callous right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!—Adv.

We've All Heard That. "Have you ever heard any table rapping?"

"No, but I've heard a lot of knocking when a pieced-up supper was being served."

Feel grand! Be efficient! Don't stay sick, bilious, headachy, constipated. Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, your breath bad and your stomach sour. Why not get a small box of Cascarets and enjoy the nicest, gentlest laxative-cathartic you ever experienced? Cascarets never gripe, sicken or inconvenience one like Salts, Oil, Calomel or harsh pills. Cascarets bring sunshine to cloudy minds and half-sick bodies. They work while you sleep. Adv.

The Choice. "The fireman in the stable is looking around for a horse."

"I suppose he wants a plug."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Tens of thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Most musicians dispense music by the measure, but the bass drummer gets rid of his by the pound.

BEAUTIFUL ISLE IS TOBAGO

Cruise's Famous Abode, in the Caribbean, Described as a Place of Many Attractions.

Tobago, the scene of Robinson Crusoe's story, and the one-time residence of John Paul Jones, is an island of supreme beauty nestling in the Caribbean, whose stormy history is without parallel in the bloodstained annals of the West Indies. History says it was fought over for centuries by French, Spanish, British, Dutch and savage Caribs and often deserted for scores of years at a time, the Detroit News recalls. The justice of Tobago's claim to be called Crusoe's island is unquestionable. Defoe's hero was one Alexander Selkirk in real life. That he was marooned as related is an historical fact. The natives can even show one the caves in which he dwelt, and from no other isle could the castaway have peered forth across the waters of the "Gulf of Oroonoke," to which he refers, and see the faint outlines of the "Island of Trinidad," as stated in his story.

Wonderfully varied and beautiful is Tobago and the visitor is inclined to wonder why Crusoe ever deserted it. Its coast line has crescent sand beaches bordering sheltered coves; outlying verdure-draped rocky islets and wooded bays; surf-washed reefs protecting secluded lagoons. Everywhere wonderfully luxuriant vegetation covers the land. It has a delightful climate, there are no snakes, and it would be an ideal winter resort if its attractiveness were known. There is one village of 3,000 people on the island.

APPLY NAMED "MOLTEN SEA"

High Priests' Swimming Pool in Solomon's Temple Most Wonderful "Tub" Ever Constructed.

How many persons ponder, while "tubbing" in the midst of modern conveniences, on how the rest of the world performs this same act of personal cleanliness? The stolen pleasures of the "old swimmin' hole," the wooden tub in the kitchen surrounded by that questionable curtain of privacy—a sheet over the clothes horse—a real sea bath or swim in a "gym" pool have been the stepping stones of progression for most of us to the modern conveniences.

This bathing idea started with Bible folk, who built the most wonderful swimming pool the world has ever seen in Solomon's temple. This "molten sea" measured ten cubits from brim to brim, five cubits in height and was round in compass; the thickness was a hand's breadth, and the brim, shaped like that of a teacup, was carved with lilies and leaves. The immense basin was borne aloft by 12 carved oxen, three each facing north, south, east and west. The pool received and held 3,000 bathers at one time and was designed for and used by high priests, there being 20,000 baths of wine and the same number of oil provided for the laymen.—Indianapolis Star.

Beautiful St. Sophia.

St. Sophia's church at Constantinople is one of the most remarkable buildings in the world. In architectural features the structure has a 107-foot dome carried on four pillars, one at each corner, and composed of light pumice stone, with the apex 175 feet above the floor.

So extraordinary is the appearance of the church that the awe-stricken Sultan Mohammed is reported as having stopped at the door when the building was taken over by the Moslems and, seeing a soldier hewing at the floor "For the faith," exclaimed, "Ye have the whole city to pillage and enslave; leave ye me the buildings!"

The Mohammedans have never destroyed the treasures of art they found upon taking Constantinople, but have covered them up. They have preserved whole cisterns or cellars full of priceless manuscripts of Greek and Byzantine literature, and writings belonging to the early part of the Gospel age.

How Oysters Grow Shells.

Young oysters float on the surface of the water for a time, then sink and fasten themselves to the bottom. Thus attached, they extract lime from the water and deposit it as shell about their bodies.

Court of Lions.

The Court of Lions is the most famous court of the Alhambra, in Spain. It takes its name from 12 white marble lions from whose mouths streams of water flowed into a central alabaster basin.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC WORK

Public notice is hereby given that on Thursday, the 22nd day of April, 1920, the Board of Trustees of the City of Sierra Madre, California, did at its meeting on said day pass a Resolution No. 95, declaring its intention to order the following Street Work done, to-wit:

To close up and vacate those certain alleys situate in the said City of Sierra Madre, more particularly described as follows:

All that certain alley 10 feet in width running from Montecito Avenue through that certain block of land in said City of Sierra Madre bounded on the North by Montecito Avenue, on the East by Hermosa Avenue, on the South by Central Avenue and on the West by Lima Street, the center line of which said alley commences at a point in the South line of said Montecito Avenue 5 feet West from the Northwest corner of Lot 32 of Mrs. C. B. Jones Subdivision of Sierra Madre, as per map thereof recorded in Book 13, Page 89, Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, and running thence South parallel with the West line of said Hermosa Avenue to a point in the North line of said Central Avenue.

And also all that certain alley 36 feet in width in said block above described which alley contains all that certain land bounded and particularly described as follows:

Commencing at the Southwest corner of Lot 32 of said Mrs. C. B. Jones Subdivision; thence running East 140 feet parallel with the South line of said Montecito Avenue; thence South 36 feet parallel with the West line of said Hermosa Avenue; thence West 140 feet parallel with the North line of said Central Avenue; thence North parallel with the West line of said Hermosa Avenue to the point of beginning.

That the exterior boundaries of the district of lands to be affected or benefited by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the damages, cost and expenses thereof are described as follows:

Commencing at the Southeast corner of Montecito Avenue and Lima Street and running thence East along the South line of said Montecito Avenue to the Southwest corner of said Montecito Avenue and Hermosa Avenue; thence South along the West line of said Hermosa Avenue to the Northwest corner of said Hermosa Avenue and Central Avenue; thence West along the North line of said Central Avenue to the Northeast corner of said Central Avenue and said Lima Street; thence North along the East line of said Lima Street to the place of beginning, excepting therefrom any portion of any public street or alley which may be included with the above described assessment district.

Reference is hereby made to said Resolution of Intention No. 95 on file in the Office of the City Clerk, of the City of Sierra Madre, for further particulars.

Dated this 26th day of April, 1920.

WEDDING OF POPULAR COUPLE

The wedding of Miss Martha Shaw and Mr. Hall Perry which was solemnized at the Church of the Ascension on Tuesday evening was one of the most beautiful which has ever been seen in this town.

The church was most artistically decorated with pink roses and asparagus fern, thousands of Cecil Bruner roses being used, and the altar was decorated with white roses.

The church was crowded to its utmost capacity with the friends of the young couple and promptly at eight, the opening strains of the Lohengrin march announced the arrival of the bride. She was preceded by her bridesmaids, Misses Harriet Sperry and Betty Shaw, her matron of honor, Mrs. Lyle Anderson of Santa Barbara and two tiny flower girls, Maybelle Louise Singer and Edith Hawks. The bridesmaids wore white net over pink and carried pink roses. Mrs. Anderson wore an exquisite gown of white tulle over pink, and the flower girls were charming tots in white and miniature copies of the rose and ostrich feather wreaths of the other attendants on their tiny heads.

The bride was escorted by her brother-in-law, Mr. Frank Was of Santa Ana, and was lovely in a gown of white tulle over silver lace with long train and a beautiful veil, her mother's wedding veil, which was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried white roses.

The bridegroom met her at the chancel steps and led her to the altar rail, where the Rev. William Carson Shaw, her father, read the beautiful marriage service of the Episcopal church.

Franklyn Orville Wright acted as best man and the ushers were Ivan Buie and Momon Baber. Mr. Douglas, organist of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral of Los Angeles and a close friend of the late Charles Hall Perry, the groom's father, presided at the organ and rendered some delightful selections before the arrival of the wedding party.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the rectory, when the young couple were the recipients of all sorts of good wishes and congratulations from their large circle of friends and relatives.

The house was tastefully decorated with roses, and the color scheme was carried out in the refreshments served.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Perry will make their home at 118 E. Laurel avenue.

MOVED TO COLORADO

Robert Grady, who lately sold the Bemay dairy to Mr. Millard, has moved his family to Avondale, Colorado, where they will make their future home. The News regrets to lose this good family from Sierra Madre, but wishes them prosperity in their new location.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

COLLECTS $814.

The Salvation Army Drive for funds was pushed vigorously by Earl Topping, local chairman, and resulted in the collection of $814.09. $536.97 was contributed and tag day brought in $111.62 and the "prize horse" fund added $165.50.

Mr. Topping "hung up" a horse in a prize guessing contest which was won by Col. Holabird who "hung it up" again, it being won this time by W. S. Hull who promptly "hung it up" again and it was finally sold to A. Hoegee who hung onto it.

Chairman Topping wishes the News to thank all workers and all givers who made the drive such a success.

MEN'S COMMUNITY CLUB

MEETING AND BANQUET

There was a good attendance at the Men's Community club meeting last night at the Congregational church, and fifty-five new members were enrolled on a drive between two teams, headed by W. S. Hull and Newman Essick. The Hull team won, but Captain Essick of the losing team claimed a victory because, as originator of the drive, his idea resulted in an increase of membership of over 100 per cent.

The lecture by Miss Madilene Veverka on Czecho-Slovakia was interesting and instructive, and the pity is that more Sierra Madre people did not hear it. Just why the public will not turn out and enjoy a really good lecture we cannot understand—unless it's because it is free.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

A direct appeal to the Board of Supervisors is being made by citizens of Los Angeles county in the matter of an adequate compensation for public school teachers. For several weeks a campaign has been under way directed by the Citizens' School Survey committee of Los Angeles county seeking to place before the public the necessity for an immediate readjustment of salaries. This campaign is now nearing a close. The citizens have been advised that adequate salaries must be paid, otherwise there is a grave danger that some schools will be unable to secure efficient teachers for the next term.

STREET WORK WILL NOW

GO FORWARD RAPIDLY

The City Trustees met last night and rejected all bids for street work and now the city street department can go ahead and do it according to law. Work will be begun on Central avenue in a few days.

BANK STATEMENT

Notice the fine showing of the First National bank, whose statement is published in another column on this page.

Oh boy! Strawberries with Bemay cream.

Mrs. E. T. Pierce left Monday for a four months' visit in New York.

Karl Hart spent the last week end with Los Angeles friends at their cabin in the mountains above Pasadena.

Mrs. L. A. Littleton left last week for Long Beach, where she will remain for an indefinite length of time.

Mrs. F. P. Baugh and little son, Robert, of Pasadena were recent guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries.

Mrs. G. C. Howell and daughter, Miss Howell, left Wednesday for a trip through the Yosemite by auto. They will be gone about two weeks.

Bemay serves raw milk from registered Holsteins.

J. N. Bergen, brother of C. C. Bergen, has bought property in Arcadia and will move his family there this week from Lindsay, Cal.

Mr. Alfred W. Elwood left Wednesday morning for Waurika, Oklahoma, after a two weeks visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries.

Mrs. M. E. Benoit of Ocean Park and Mrs. H. L. Thymson of Los Angeles were the guests for last week-end of Mrs. Frank Johnson on South Baldwin.

Bemay leaves it fresh for your breakfast.

Mrs. F. J. Hart will entertain at "Hartwood" with a luncheon on Saturday in honor of eastern friends and old neighbors from Los Angeles. Covers will be laid for twenty guests.

Mr. F. W. Essex of London, England, brother of Sir Walter Essex, late member of parliament, was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries last week.

With the clothiers reducing prices from 20% to 50% one cannot be blamed if an opinion is formed as to the identity of at least one branch of commerce that has been profiteering.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Gebb, who have been spending the past four months in Sierra Madre, left last week for Los Angeles to spend several weeks there before returning to their home in San Francisco.

Bemay's cream makes the best and cheapest dessert.

Mrs. Blanche Wisschuen, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Leslie Wisschuen, left Friday morning for Belleville, New Jersey. Mrs. Wisschuen has been spending a year in Sierra Madre and has made many friends during her stay here.

Richard Walton Tully and family were guests on Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. R. W. Tully, and brother, Mr. Argyle Tully. Mr. Tully is a well known author and dramatist and has just returned from producing a number of his plays.

On Saturday, May 22, the Woman's Guild of Ascension church will have charge of the tea room at the Woman's exchange on Baldwin avenue. There will also be a sale of cakes, pies, etc. Come in and have a nice drink of iced tea or chocolate, or a piece of strawberry shortcake.

Mrs. J. Parish with her two children and nurse left last week for their home in Milwaukee after several months visit here with relatives. Her mother, Mrs. George Pillsbury, remained here to be with her husband, who arrived a few days ago. They will be with their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pillsbury, and will spend part of their time visiting their sisters, Mrs. J. D. Sparks and Miss Bernice Travis, and brother, Marshall O. Travis.

FORMER PASTOR HERE

Rev. Fred Taft, former pastor of the Congregational church, was calling on old friends in Sierra Madre on Wednesday. He has been spending the past three weeks at Coronado, and Wednesday evening he was entertained with dinner in Los Angeles by Charles S. Kersting, F. H. Hartman and H. J. Simack of Pasadena. They accompanied him to the train when he departed for his home in Colorado Springs.

P. T. A. MEETING

On Wednesday a regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher association was held with the usual attendance.

The speaker for the afternoon was Dr. William A. Snyder, principal of the Hollywood High school, whose subject was "School Democracy."

Mrs. James N. Hawks sang two charming selections with encores.

Prizes were awarded to the following pupils for the best home gardens,

$1.00 being the amount for each one: Billy Edwards, Roy Edwards, Harold Spears, Verne Bradford, Vernon Udell, William Turner and Warren Olsen. Mrs. R. J. Lord, Miss Marian Evans and C. W. Jones acted as judges.

The following ladies were elected to office for the coming term: President, Mrs. E. W. Wood; vice-president, Mrs. Ralph Lord; secretary, Mrs. Holt R. Gregory; treasurer, Mrs. C. C. Bodine; historian, Mrs. A. Udell; parliamentarian, Mrs. F. Wright.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served.

MARRIED

Charles Downs, son of Mrs. M. O. Downs of this place, was married Monday, May 17, to Miss Martha Polk of Dayton, Ohio. The marriage occurred in Los Angeles at the parsonage of the Temple Baptist church, Rev. Dr. Brougher officiating.

The young couple will spend their honeymoon at Catalina and on their return will reside at Long Beach.

This announcement comes as a surprise to many friends here whose best wishes follow him in his new life.

SLUMBER PARTY

Miss Louise Pearson entertained a number of girl friends last Saturday evening with a slumber party.

The early evening hours were given over to dancing and games and at midnight a delicious supper was served.

Those who enjoyed this occasion were Misses Muriel Tarr, Lorraine Wright, Mildred Zeller, Hilda Barrett, Linda Schwartz, Lucille Parks of Glendale and Linda Michner of Pasadena.

DINNER AND DANCE

Mrs. W. H. Ingraham entertained with a dinner party last Friday evening in honor of her niece, Miss Hallet Johnson.

Roses and ferns centered the table and at each place were corsage bouquets for the girls and boutonnières for the boys.

Mrs. Ingraham was assisted by Mrs. E. W. Camp.

Guests were Misses Hallet, Johnson, Lorraine Wright, Virginia Jones, Harriet Sperry, Gladys Walker, and Elizabeth Berhardy of Los Angeles, Messrs. Elliott Rhodes, Stafford Sadler, Francis Francisus, Charles Klnnk, Harold Williams, Gale Williams, Raymond Hedderly and G. Hallett Johnson.

After the dinner the party attended the dance at the club house.

MAKING GOOD STREETS OUT OF BAD ONES

Another bad street has been made into a good one by the road making crew under the direction of Street Commissioner Udell and machines can now be driven over North Hermosa from Highland to Grand View avenue without breaking a spring. It's a nice smooth piece of work and the residents of that neighborhood are jubilant.

Work will commence on the big job on Central street next week and when that is finished we can brag.

Now, if some one would punch up Arcadia and induce them to make good on their numerous promises and re-surface South Baldwin we would soon be in a position where apologies would not be so necessary.

Tarzan and The Jewels of Opar

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Author of "TARZAN OF THE APES," "SON OF TARZAN"

Copyright, 1918, A. C. McClurg & Co.

"He is worse than a crook," said a quiet voice behind them.

Tarzan turned in astonishment to see a tall man in uniform standing in the trail a few paces from him. Back of the man were a number of black soldiers in the uniform of the Congo Free State.

"He is a murderer, monsieur," continued the officer, "I have followed him for a long time to take him back to stand trial for the killing of his superior officer."

Werper was upon his feet now, gazing, white and trembling, at the fate which had overtaken him even in the fastness of the labyrinthine jungle. Instinctively he turned to flee; but Tarzan of the Apes reached out a strong hand and grasped him by the shoulder.

"Wait!" said the ape-man to his captive. "This gentleman wishes you and so do I. When I am through with you he may have you. Tell me what has become of my wife."

The Belgian officer eyed the almost naked white giant with curiosity. He could not quite determine the social status of this strange creature; but he knew that he did not relish the easy assurance with which the fellow presumed to dictate when he might take possession of the prisoner.

"Pardon me," he said, stepping forward and placing his hand on Werper's other shoulder; "but this gentleman is my prisoner. He must come with me."

"When I am through with him," replied Tarzan, quietly.

"Both the law and the power to enforce it are upon my side," announced the officer. "Let us have no trouble."

"Your legal rights are not above suspicion, my friend," replied Tarzan, "and your power to enforce your commands are only apparent—not real. You have presumed to enter British territory with an armed force. Where is your authority for this invasion? Where are the extradition papers which warrant the arrest of this man? And what assurance have you that I cannot bring an armed force about you that will prevent your return to the Congo Free State?"

The Belgian lost his temper. "I have no disposition to argue with a naked savage," he cried. "Unless you wish to be hurt you will not interfere with me. Take the prisoner, sergeant."

Werper raised his lips close to Tarzan's ear. "Keep me from them, and I can show you the very spot where I saw your wife last night," he whispered. "She cannot be far from here at this very minute."

The soldiers, following the signal from their sergeant, closed in to seize Werper. Tarzan grabbed the Belgian about the waist, and bearing him beneath his arm as he might have borne a sack of flour, leaped forward in an attempt to break through the cordon. His right fist caught the nearest soldier upon the jaw and sent him hurtling backward upon his fellows. Clubbed rifles were torn from the hands of those who barred his way, and right and left the black soldiers stumbled aside in the face of the ape-man's savage break for liberty.

So completely did the blacks surround the two that they dared not fire for fear of hitting one of their own number, and Tarzan was already through them and upon the point of dodging into the concealing mazes of the jungle when one who had sneaked upon him from behind struck him a heavy blow upon the head with a rifle.

In an instant the ape-man was down and a dozen black soldiers were upon his back. When he regained consciousness he found himself securely bound, as was Werper also. Werper was voluble in his protests. He explained that Tarzan was an English lord; but the officer only laughed at the assertion, and advised his prisoner to save his breath for his defense in court.

Toward evening the column halted beside a stream, made camp and prepared the evening meal. From the thick foliage of the near-by jungle a pair of fierce eyes watched the activities of the uniformed blacks with silent intensity and curiosity.

Tarzan and Werper had been lying bound behind a small pile of knapsacks from the time that the company had halted; but with the preparation of the meal completed, their guard ordered them to rise and come forward to one of the fires where their hands would be unfettered that they might eat.

As the giant ape-man rose, a startled expression of recognition entered the eyes of the watcher in the jungle, and a low guttural broke from the savage lips. Instantly Tarzan was alert, but the answering growl died upon his lips, suppressed by the fear that it might arouse the suspicions of the soldiers.

Suddenly an inspiration came to him. He turned toward Werper.

"I am going to speak to you in a loud voice and in a tongue which you do not understand. Appear to listen carefully to what I say, and occasionally utter something as though you plying in the same language—our escape may hinge upon the success of your efforts."

Werper nodded in assent and understanding, and immediately there broke from the lips of his companion a strange jargon which might have been compared with equal propriety to the barking and growling of a dog and the chattering of monkeys.

The nearer soldiers looked in surprise at the ape-man. The officer approached the prisoners while Tarzan was still jabbering, and halted behind them, listening in perplexed interest.

And deep in the gloomy jungle amidst the darkening shadows of the falling night a hairy, manlike creature swung swiftly southward upon some secret mission of his own.

To Jane Clayton, waiting in the tree where Werper had placed her, it seemed that the long night would never end, yet end it did at last, and within an hour of the coming of dawn her spirit leaped with renewed hope at sight of a solitary horseman approaching along the trail.

The flowing burnoose, with its loose hood hid both the face and the figure of the rider; but that it was M. Percout the girl well knew, since he had been garbed as an Arab, and he alone might be expected to seek her hiding place.

She did not see the black face beneath the white hood, nor the file of ebony horsemen beyond the trail's bend riding slowly in the wake of their leader. These things she did not see at first, so she leaned downward toward the approaching rider, a cry of welcome in her throat.

At the first word the man looked up, reining in in surprise, and as she saw the black face of Abdul Mourak, the Abyssinian, she shrank back in terror among the branches; but it was too late. The man had seen her, and now he called to her to descend. She realized that resistance was futile, and came slowly down to stand upon the ground before this new captor and plead her cause in the name of justice and humanity.

Angered by recent defeat, and by the loss of the gold, the jewels, and his prisoners, Abdul Mourak was in no mood to be influenced by any appeal to those softer sentiments to which, as a matter of fact, he was almost a stranger even under the most favorable conditions.

He looked for degradation and possible death in punishment for his failures and his misfortunes when he should have returned to his native land and made his report to Menelek; but an acceptable gift might temper the wrath of the emperor, and surely this fair flower of another race should be gratefully received by the black ruler!

Many hours later, and as yet Jane Clayton, notwithstanding that she had passed a sleepless night the night before, had scarcely more than dozed. A sense of impending danger seemed to hang like a black pall over the camp. The veteran troopers of the black emperor were nervous and ill at ease. Abdul Mourak left his blankets a dozen times to pace restlessly back and forth between the tethered horses and the crackling fire. The roaring of lions rose in sudden fury until the earth trembled to the hideous chorus. The horses shivered their neighs of terror as they lay back upon their halter ropes in their mad endeavors to break loose. A lion, large and fierce, and courageous, leaped almost to the boma, full in the bright light from the fire. A outcry raised his piece and fired, and the little leaden pellet unstoppered the vials of hell upon the terror-stricken camp.

The shot plowed a deep and painful furrow in the lion's side, arousing all the bestial fury of the little brain; but abating not a whit the power and vigor of the great body.

Unwounded, the boma and the flames might have turned him back; but now the pain and the rage wiped caution from his mind, and with a loud and angry roar he topped the barrier with an easy leap and was among the horses.

What had been pandemonium before became now an indescribable tumult of hideous sounds. The stricken horse upon which the lion leaped shrieked out its terror and its agony. Several about it broke their tethers and plunged madly about the camp. Men leaped from their blankets and with guns ready ran toward the picket line, and then from the jungle beyond the boma a dozen lions, emboldened by the example of their fellow, charged fearlessly upon the camp.

Amidst the cracking of the rifles and the growls of the carnivora rose the death screams of stricken men and horses as they were dragged down by the blood-mad cats. The leaping carnivora and the plunging horses prevented any concerted action by the Abyssinians—it was every man for himself—and in the melee the defenseless woman was either forgotten or ignored by her black captors.

A horse, struck by a stray bullet, fell beside Jane Clayton, a lion leaped across the expiring beast full upon the breast of a black trooper just beyond. Gaping fangs closed with a single sickening crunch upon the fear-distorted face, and the lion strode back across the body of the dead horse, dragging his limp and bloody burden with him.

Wide-eyed the girl stood watching. She saw the carnivore step upon the corpse, stumblingly, as the grisly thing swung between its forepaws, and her eyes remained fixed in fascination while the beast passed within a few paces of her.

The interference of the body seemed to enrage the lion. He shook the inanimate clay venomously. He growled and roared hideously at the dead, insensate thing, and then he dropped it and raised his head to look about in search of some living victim upon which to wreak his ill temper. His yellow eyes fastened themselves balefully upon the figure of the girl, the bristling lips raised, disclosing the grinning fangs. A terrific roar broke from the savage throat, and the great beast crouched to spring upon this new and helpless victim.

Quiet had fallen upon the camp where Tarzan and Werper lay securely bound. Silently and powerfully the ape-man strained at the bonds which fettered his wrists.

The muscles knotted beneath the smooth brown skin of his arms and shoulders, the veins stood out upon his temples from the force of his exertions—a strand parted, another and another, and one hand was free. Then from the jungle came a low guttural, and the ape-man became suddenly a silent, rigid statue, with ears and nostrils straining to span the black void where his eyesight could not reach.

Again came the uncanny sound from the thick verdure beyond the camp. The sentries drew close together, watching the black spot from which the voice seemed to come.

They dared not approach. Their terror even prevented them from arousing their fellows—they could only stand in frozen fear and watch for the fearsome apparition they momentarily expected to see leap from the jungle.

Nor had they long to wait. A dim, bulky form dropped lightly from the branches of a tree into the camp. At sight of it one of the sentries recovered command of his muscles and his voice. Screaming loudly, to awaken the sleeping camp, he leaped toward the flickering watch fire and threw a mass of brush upon it.

The flames leaped high upon the rejuvenated fire, lighting the entire camp, and the awakened men shrank back in superstitious terror from the sight that met their frightened and astonished vision.

A dozen huge and hairy forms loomed large beneath the trees at the far side of the inclosure. The white giant, one hand free, had struggled to his knees and was calling to the frightful nocturnal visitors in a hideous medley of bestial gutturals, barkings and growlings.

Growling, the great apes leaped forward toward Tarzan and Werper. Chulk led them. The Belgian officer called to his men to fire upon the intruders; but the negroes held back, filled as they were with superstitious terror of the hairy tree-men, and with the conviction that the white giant who could thus summon the beasts of the jungle to his aid was more than human.

Drawing his own weapon the officer fired, and Tarzan, fearing the effect of the noise upon his really timid friends, called to them to hasten and fulfill his commands. Chulk and a half dozen others waddled rapidly forward, and following the ape-man's directions, seized both him and Werper and bore them off toward the jungle.

By dint of threats, reproaches and profanity the Belgian officer succeeded in persuading his trembling command to fire a volley after the retreating apes. A ragged, struggling volley it was, but at one of its bullets found a mark, for as the jungle closed about the hairy rescuers Chulk, who bore Werper across one broad shoulder, staggered and fell.

As Chulk went down he dropped Werper, so that the latter fell face downward with the body of the ape lying half across him. In this position the Belgian felt something resting against his hands, which were still bound at his back—something that was not a part of the hairy body of the ape.

Mechanically the man's fingers felt of the object resting almost in his grasp—it was a soft pouch, filled with small, hard particles. Werper gasped in wonderment as recognition filtered through the incredulity of his mind. It was impossible, and yet—it was true!

Feverishly he strove to remove the pouch from the ape and transfer it to his own possession; but the restricted radius to which his bonds held his hands prevented this, though he did succeed in tucking the pouch with its precious contents inside the waistband of his trousers.

Tarzan, sitting at a short distance, was busy with the remaining knots of the cords which bound him. Presently he flung aside the last of them and rose to his feet. Approaching Werper he knelt beside him. For a moment he examined the ape.

"Quite dead," he announced. "It is too bad—he was a splendid creature," and then he turned to the work of liberating the Belgian.

He freed his hands first and then commenced upon the knots at his ankles.

"I can do the rest," said the Belgian. "I have a small pocket knife which they overlooked when they searched me," and in this way he succeeded in ridding himself of the ape-man's attentions that he might find and open his little knife and cut the thong which fastened the pouch about Chulk's shoulder and transfer it from his waistband to the breast of his shirt. Then he rose and approached Tarzan.

"Now," said the ape-man, "keep your promise to me. Lead me to the spot where you last saw my wife."

It was slow work pushing through the jungle in the dead of night behind the slow-moving Belgian. The ape-man chafed at the delay, but the European could not swing through the trees as could his more agile and muscular companions, and so the speed of all was limited to that of the slowest.

The two had gone but a short distance when the roaring of distant lions fell upon their ears. The ape-man paid no attention to the familiar sounds until the crack of a rifle came faintly from the same direction, and when this was followed by the shrill neighing of horses and an almost continuous fusillade of shots intermingled with increased and savage roaring of a large troop of lions, he became immediately concerned.

"Someone is having trouble over there," he said, turning toward Werper. "I'll have to go to them—they may be friends."

"Your wife might be among them," suggested the Belgian, for since he had again come into possession of the pouch he had become fearful and suspicious of the ape-man, and in his mind had constantly revolved many plans for eluding this giant Englishman, who was at once his savior and his captor.

At the suggestion Tarzan started as though struck with a whip.

"God!" he cried, "she might be, and the lions are attacking them—they are in the camp. I can tell from the screams of the horses—and there! that was the cry of a man in his death agonies. Stay here, man—I will come back for you. I must go first to them," and swinging into a tree the lithe figure swung rapidly off into the night with the speed and silence of a disembodied spirit.

For a moment Werper stood where the ape-man had left him. Then a cunning smile crossed his lips. "Stay here?" he asked himself. "Stay here and wait until you return to find and take these jewels from me? Not I, my friend, not I," and turning abruptly eastward Albert Werper passed through the foliage of a hanging vine and out of the sight of his fellowman—forever.

Growth of Cremation Idea.

Available statistics compiled less than a decade ago show that in the United States the total number of cremations had risen to over 60,000 distributed among 38 crematories. The growth of cremation has been very rapid on the Pacific coast. In 1913 a contract was let by the government for the erection of a crematory in the Canal zone.

Yellowstone Leads Them All.

The Yellowstone national park is the largest and most widely celebrated of our national parks. It is a wooded wilderness of thirty-three hundred square miles. It contains more geysers than are found in the rest of the world together, and has innumerable hot springs, whose steam mingles with the clouds.—National Magazine.

Thousands of Women

Owe Their Health To

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine. Compared with it, all other medicines for women's ills seem to be experiments.

Why is it so successful? Simply because of its sterling worth. For over forty years it has had no equal. Women for two generations have depended upon it with confidence.

Thousands of Their Letters are on our files, which prove these statements to be facts, not mere boasting.

Here Are Two Sample Letters:

Mother and Daughter Helped.

Middleburg, Pa.—"I am glad to state that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me much good when I was 35 years old. I was run down with female trouble and was not able to do anything, could not walk for a year and could not work. I had treatment from a physician but did not gain. I read in the papers and books about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. The first few bottles gave me relief and I kept on using it until I got better and was able to do my work. The Vegetable Compound also regulated my daughter when she was 15 years old. I can recommend Vegetable Compound as the best medicine I have ever used."—Mrs. W. YENGER, R. 3, Box 21, Middleburg, Pa.

Fall River, Mass.—"Three years ago I gave birth to a little girl and after she was born I did not pick up well. I doctored for two months and my condition remained the same. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband suggested that I try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started it immediately and I felt better and could eat better after the first bottle, and I continued taking it for some time. Last year I gave birth to a baby boy and had a much easier time as I took the Vegetable Compound for four months before baby came. On getting up I had no pains like I had before, and no dizziness, and in two weeks felt about as well as ever."—Mrs. THOMAS WILKINSON, 363 Columbia Street, Fall River, Mass.

The Present Need.

Max Eastman said at a Greenwich village tea:

"A millionaire business man lectured me about my discontent the other day. He said there was never such a chance for bright men as now. He said there were any number of $50,000 openings for bright men."

"Of course there are!" said I. "You need the very brightest men you can get to think up new reasons for boosting your prices still higher!"

Alabastine

Instead of kalsomine or wallpaper

How much better, when you have a new home, to start right than to have to correct errors afterward from former treatment with other materials, when you come to the use of Alabastine, as does nearly every one sooner or later.

Once your walls are Alabastined you can use any material over it should you desire, but having used Alabastine you will have no desire for any other treatment.

Alabastine is so easy to mix and apply—so lasting in its results—so absolutely sanitary—and so generally recognized as the proper decorative material in a class by itself that it is becoming difficult to manufacture fast enough to supply the demand.

Alabastine is a dry powder, put up in five-pound packages, white and beautiful tints, ready to mix and use by the addition of cold water, and with full directions on each package. Every package of genuine Alabastine has cross and circle printed in red.

Women with Backache

Anacortes, Wash.:—"I was troubled with displacement for a long time, causing backache and those heavy bearing pains, and my blood was in bad condition. I had no appetite and was generally run-down. I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in connection with his Pleasant Pellets and was completely restored to health. I always recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all my friends." Mrs. A. KESSE, Gen. Del.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Los Angeles, Cal.:—"I suffered from nervous prostration for several years trying various remedies furnished by the doctor. At last I tried Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, together with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, at the advice of a friend who had used it and had been cured, and my recovery was prompt and permanent. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines."—ROSE FAULKNER, 232 So. Grand Ave.

CONSTIPATION AND BOWEL TROUBLE

Everett, Wash.:—"I had constipation extremely bad, and had tried different things but got little help. I remembered that my grandmother always used Dr. Pierce's medicines and always vowed that there was nothing like them, so I decided to try the Pleasant Pellets for my bowel trouble. I did so with wonderful results. Am never without them now."—Mrs. E. G. DEMARAY, 2902 Hewitt Ave.

Suffered for Years

Miserable From Kidney Trouble Doan's Made Mr. Barnett Strong and Well.

"I suffered untold agony with my kidneys for years," says John Barnett, 30 Virginia Place, Buffalo, N. Y. "Sometimes I felt that I would burn up with fever, but every now and then would have a severe chill. Often my clothes were wringing wet with perspiration. The kidney secretions were unnatural in color and odor and burned terribly. At night my shoes were so tight on my feet that I could hardly get them off and my hands swelled so I couldn't hold a teacup. My back! Oh, how it ached! I walked with two canes and was all bent over like an aged man. When the terrible pains shot through my kidneys my knees would give way, and many times I had to be lifted to my feet by people on the street. I didn't care whether I lived or died I was so miserable. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of all kidney trouble. Doan's made me strong and well."

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

WHERE REAL SCOUTS SHINE

The boy who learns fire building thoroughly is a safe inhabitant of the forest. The boy who goes abroad with two matches and a new ax as his sole equipment is a menace to himself, the good name of scouting, and the safety of the woods into which he ventures.

Accordingly the ability to build a fire in the open, using not more than two matches, is a second-class scout requirement, and in actual practice it is one of the first things a boy should study upon entering the great brotherhood.

When the red gods call and the weather man favors, any lad can entice flame, ignite a glorious smudge, singe his eyebrows, and come home with a feeling that potatoes baked in an oven are better than potatoes cremated in a bonfire.

It is the scoutmaster's high privilege to initiate his boys into the charmed circle of real scouts to whom unpropitious weather is no barrier, and to build in their hearts, not only the pattern of the tepee fire and many other arrangements of fuel and draft, but to build also, love of the growing tree, love of an unscarred and unburned woodland, love of an entirely extinguished fire marked by two unburned crossed sticks and unshamed by waste paper and tin cans.

SCOUTS' FIRST-AID DRILL.

How the Youngsters Train to Render Aid When There is an Emergency.

HOW SCOUTS AID IN FORESTRY.

The approval of scout co-operation in forestry work was given by John H. Wallace, Jr., commissioner of conservation in Alabama.

"The Boy Scouts of Alabama have recently rendered this department a distinctive service by placing in conspicuous places, throughout their respective communities, our conservation posters."

"I regard the friendship and co-operation of the Boy Scouts of Alabama as among the most valuable assets of this department in creating a wholesome public sentiment favorable to the enforcement of the laws of this state for the protection of our national resources."

SCOUT'S FIRST AID SAVES LIFE.

The first aid help given by a boy scout at the time of the injury probably saved the life of Ernest Whipple of Leona, Ore., whose arm was severed by a cut-off saw at a lumber mill. The boy was Howard Lea, an employee of the mill, and when other men left the victim helpless because of their ignorance of the care that should be given, young Lea bound the wound after the method taught all members of the boy scout organization, and the resultant stopping of the flow of blood is believed to have saved the young man's life.

DOINGS OF THE BOY SCOUTS.

Gaffney (S. C.) Troop No. 1 was particularly successful in collecting books for service men and raised $115.00 for a poor family.

Des Moines, Ia., scouts, during the student volunteer convention met 6,000 delegates at the railroad depot and escorted them to registration bureaus, checked their baggage, and supplied information at official booths.

The Pennsylvania state game commission called upon the boy scouts to enlist in the movement to feed the birds, whose source of food was cut off by snow. The department had a force of men at work feeding quail and wild turkey in the central Pennsylvania districts.

Scouts of Troop No. 2 of Effingham guarded a disabled mail airplane both day and night.

Andover (N. H.) boy scouts ran the snow plow through town and saved wood for the poor.

Naugatuck (Conn.) Troop No. 2 returned a lost child to its parents, and searched for a lost aviator.

Identification cards for boy scouts have been prepared by Mayor Stauffer of Reading, Pa. They contain the seal of the city, and will be numbered and listed so that the city knows to whom each card has been issued.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MORE REQUESTS.

Before the fairy who had promised to grant the requests of the toys and clothes in the great children's store had told the Wishing Fairy that she was needed, the things in the store kept on talking and wishing.

"I'm tired of dances," said the party dress. "Yes, I'm tired enough of such things. I'm no hand for conversations either. I just want to play."

"You don't know much about hands," said a toy from nearby, "if you say you're not much of a hand for conversation. Conversation is talk and is done by moving the mouth and uttering sounds."

"Well," said the party dress, "I'd like to be a regular dress, instead of always fixed up as I am. I wonder why they made us to suit ourselves rather than to suit us."

"They might have asked us how we wanted to be made," said the blue apron.

"Of course," said the fairy, "you were cut out to be what you are now, still, if you want to change, I'll tell you what I'll do about it. As I promised you, I'll call the Wishing Fairy. She is not always around, but I know she is tonight."

The fairy waved her wand and sang to herself in a low, sing-song. Soon there appeared another fairy with a wand of silver. She was dressed in silver and her cap was of a deep blue like the sky.

"Hello, aprons, gloves, toys, books, games, gold fish, party dresses, gingham dresses," she called.

They all called back "Hello." That is, all the ones who were awake this evening and who weren't so tired that they went to sleep at once.

"What is this I hear that you want?" she asked.

"We all wish we were something else," said the gingham dress. "I'd like to be a party dress, and the party dress is tired of its ribbons and laces. The gold fish down the aisle wants to be—what is it you do want to be gold fish?"

"I want to be a toy," said the gold fish.

"And oh," said a pair of brown jumpers, "I want to be myself. But I want a playmate. I'd like to have a doll, please, Fairy!"

"The doll you shall have," said the fairy. "I'll wave my wand."

The Wishing Fairy waved her wand, and the whole store began to grow and grow. Each counter was now like a store in itself and none of the counters were near each other. There were great, enormous roadways between the counters and the things were all different themselves. The gingham dress was now a party dress. It was wonderful how a party dress had been made out of the gingham one, for the gingham dress saw that there was some of the old dress left.

"Oh," said the gingham dress, now a party dress, "I do want to go to a party now."

"You shall," said the Wishing Fairy, suddenly appearing again. "Everyone is to have a complete, whole wish."

"Do We Make Mud Pies?"

granted this evening. And all of the others will go where they please and be what they please."

Such a change as there was. The gingham dress, now a party dress, found herself at a great party. There were many boys and girls and they looked at her as she came in the doorway. Oh, how strange and uncomfortable she felt. It was really a most miserable feeling.

"Do we make mud pies later on?" she asked of another party dress.

"Ha, ha," said the other party dress, "where did you come from that you didn't know that at parties such as this we don't do such things. We couldn't soil our clothes. I do believe your grandmother must have been a gingham. My grandmother," the other party dress said very proudly, "she walked off tittering and giggling, 'was a Lady Lace and she went to court affairs where my grandfather, Lord Velvet met her."

"What horrid, snobbish creatures," said the gingham dress. "Oh, dear, what shall I do, no one will be friendly with me. I wish I were going to a good outdoor garden-play-ground party where children and clothes did things so I wouldn't feel so strange."

"All right," said the Wishing Fairy, "I will make you happy and change you back to what you were."

Byron indited fluent and passionate love verses at the age of ten. Tennyson wrote charming lyrics at twelve, and Milton wrote epic poems before he was eleven.

Another Royal Suggestion DOUGHNUTS and CRULLERS

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

DOUGHNUTS made the doughboy happy during the war and no wonder. There is nothing more wholesome and delightful than doughnuts or crullers rightly made. Their rich, golden color and appetizing aroma will create an appetite quicker than anything else in the world.

Here are the famous doughnut and cruller recipes from the New Royal Cook Book.

Doughnuts

3 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening; add sugar and well-beaten eggs; stir in milk; add nutmeg, salt, flour and baking powder which have been sifted together and enough additional flour to make dough stiff enough to roll. Roll out on floured board to about 1/4 inch thick; cut out. Fry in deep fat hot enough to brown a piece of bread in 60 seconds. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Afternoon Tea Doughnuts

"I advise you, if you go to London, to engage your hotel accommodation in advance, for all the London hotels are crowded all the time."

"An American was walking the Strand the other day, when a red-nosed chap touched his arm and said: 'Could you give me a few sopors, sir, for a bed?'"

"A few sopors?" said the American. "Why, man, I'll give you a couple of sovereigns. Where the deuce is it? I've been looking for a bed all over this blasted town for two days."

All Going Smoothly.
The chaplain came plodding along the road coming back from the front lines several hours after the infantry had gone over the top.

"How are things going up there?" inquired an artillery lieutenant.

In point of attendance it promises to be a repetition of the pilgrimage which took place on March 14, when about 1500 people were present from the surrounding country, as far as Santa Barbara and San Diego.

The singing in the morning will be furnished by a choir from Long Beach, while in the afternoon a number of musicians from Los Angeles will take charge of the musical program.

LIFE FROM MY WINDOW

(By an ex-Service Man)

Those who have won.

One cannot read the life of Laura Bridgman without being inspired to greater effort. She was born a blind deaf mute. She was not expected to live long and was sent to a hospital where the head of the institution became interested in her case.

Partly through his efforts her name has become familiar everywhere as an example of what can be accomplished with encouragement and the will to do. Her whole life is a striking instance of perseverance and determination not to allow circumstances to overcome her ability to succeed.

Besides gaining a good education she wrote many books of noted worth and her famous poem "Holy Home" has cheered thousands.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning, in early childhood, had a spinal affection and as a consequence her lungs became delicate. Her whole life was a fight against ill-health yet through it all she saw the silver cloud shining amid the desolate gloom, and who can doubt but her life has been a means of helping all classes of women in every part of the globe. Not allowing her condition to prevent her from giving to the world her best, she kept on composing poems and verse that are read and admired by all of us to this day.

It is impossible to read her "Aurora Leigh" without being lifted up to heights of charming beauty where this old dreary world puts on a different aspect and appears altogether beautiful.

Could you imagine the author of David Barnum an invalid? It would be impossible to detect it while reading that simple yet delightful book which has made all classes happier, and enabled them to get more in harmony with life while perusing it. Westcott, at the time he conceived this work and all through the period of writing it, was dying of that most dreadful disease, cancer.

Helen Keller deprived of her sight and hearing at the age of two years is the most extraordinary case ever known in the education of the deaf mutes, her acquisitions consisting of several languages, and her general culture being exceptionally wide. Her "Memoirs of My Life" is an illuminating narrative and will help those of you who are depressed.

Most of the instances I have cited are household words wherever the English language is spoken.

Next week let me take you to fishing village on the east coast of Newfoundland where I will make you acquainted with a veritable hero and, although he was not known outside his own country, in my opinion, occupies a high position among "Those Who Have Won."

ing and impelling this growth in the way it should go.

The Board of Trade has offered itself as a medium for this cooperation.

Let us join it and make it OUR Board of Trade.

Let us have the satisfaction of knowing that it has the benefit of our ideas, our inspiration and our support in its activities.

Let us become a partner in the city's growth.

The Board of Trade has set aside the week of May 17 as Sierra Madre Week.

LET'S MAKE IT UNANIMOUS.

Let us show by our willingness to cooperate an appreciation of the benefits that Sierra Madre affords us.

Sincerely,

A CITIZEN OF SIERRA MADRE.

The VALLEY OF THE GIANTS

By PETER B. KYNE

AUTHOR OF "CAPPY RICKS"

A Romance of the Redwoods

In this stirring narrative of the California forests, strong men battle for a section of country as big as a principality. The fight of the Cardigans, father and son, to hold the Valley of the Giants against the treachery of Colonel Pennington, and the part played by the Colonel's niece in deciding the issue, make a tale of unsurpassed interest.

The exhilarating breath of the big woods is present on every page. The reader finishes with a sense of having lived with big men and women in a big country. Our New Serial!
